Once a Rarity Are Women Ready to Take The Lead in America's Police Departments?

In 1985 Penny Harrington became the first woman police chief in a major metropolitan police department when she was appointed to lead the Portland (Oregon) Police Bureau. Although she broke the glass ceiling almost 20 years ago, no real trend has followed. According to Margaret Moore, director of the National Center for Women and Policing, there are about 150 female police chiefs in the 18,000 departments nationwide, representing less than one percent of the positions available.

Things might be ready to change though, particularly in the Midwest. November was a big month for women in law enforcement. The City of Milwaukee, the nation's 19th largest city and Detroit, the 10th largest, both named women to the top post in their police departments.

With Nan Hegerty taking the top job in Milwaukee and Ella Bully-Cummings in Detroit, a Midwest trend may be developing. Read more on these two women beginning on the next page.

from the position on Friday. "This is a change in leadership, not direction," said Mayor Kilpatrick. "I am convinced Interim Chief Bully-Cummings can move this department forward on the path of reform, right now."

In more than 20 years with DPD, Bully-Cummings has held every rank – and in 2002 was appointed by Mayor Kilpatrick as the Department's first female Assistant Chief.

Her DPD career includes:

In 1995, Bully-Cummings became the Commanding Officer of the Crime Prevention Section and was soon appointed to the rank of Inspector. In 1996, she became the Commanding Officer of both the Public Information Section and the Crime Prevention Section.

As Inspector, she enhanced both the Public Information and Crime Prevention Sections creating several new programs such as Senior Appreciation Day, Merrill Plaisance Halloween Task Force Volunteer Command Post, Chief's Crime Prevention Advisory Council, Chief's Senior Advisory Program, Chief's Youth Advisory

In 1998, Bully-Cummings was appointed to the rank of Commander and assigned as the Commanding Officer of the Eighth Precinct. A few months later was assigned as the Acting Deputy Chief of the Western Operations Bureau. As she moved through the DPD ranks, she also pursued her education, receiving a Bachelor of Arts with honors in Public Administration from Madonna University in 1993 and a Juris Doctor Cum Laude from Detroit College of Law at Michigan State University in 1998. She was sworn into the State Bar of Michigan in 1998.

Bully-Cummings retired from the Detroit Police Department in July 1999 and pursued the practice of law. ## Nan Hegerty Becomes First Female Chief of the Milwaukee Police Department

Milwaukee Top Cop
Nan Hegerty

Milwaukee was poised to become the largest U.S. city with a female police chief with the retirement of Chief Arthur Jones and the swearing in of Nan Hegerty on November 18th. Hegerty will still become Milwaukee's top cop, but the distinction of being the largest city with a woman in charge was taken by Detroit's appointment of Ella Bully-Cummings on November 3rd.

Nannette H. Hegerty was appointed to the Milwaukee Police Department on October 11, 1976. Throughout her career, Hegerty has worked in Districts Two, Three and Five, the Vice Control Division, the Detective Bureau, the Juvenile Division, the Metropolitan Division, the Internal Affairs Division, the Training Bureau, the Sensitive Crimes Division and the Criminal Investigation Bureau.

She was promoted to sergeant in 1987 and lieutenant in 1990. She became Milwaukee's first female captain in 1991.

Hegerty left the department in 1994, when President Clinton appointed her to run the state's Eastern District office of the U.S. Marshals Service.

She returned to the police department in May 2002 to lead the sensitive crimes division.

Bradley DeBraska, president of the Milwaukee Police Association, said Hegerty's work with the U.S. Marshals would be invaluable to the department.

"It gives her a great amount of insight into what is needed from another institution, and that's very important," DeBraska said.

Hegerty has earned a Bachelor of Science Degree from the University of Wisconsin and a Master of Science Degree in Management. She is a graduate of Northwestern University's School of Police Staff and Command, and a graduate of the FBI National Academy.

Triumph of Spirit

An Autobiography By Chief Penny Harrington

Penny Harrington is the first woman in America to break through the bullet-proof glass ceiling, and achieve the rank of Chief of a major metropolitan police force. She is regarded by some as a maverick who challenged the system, and by others as a celebrity. She faced discrimination and harassment, personal tragedies and triumphs as she battled a system that is still male-dominated. In this revealing story, Harrington describes with great candor her 23 years in law enforcement, up to and including her promotion to Chief of the Portland Police Bureau in Oregon, and why she left her hard-won position following a scandal and rumors that rocked Portland and were covered in newspapers around the country.
